Sr#	Self Evaluation Sheet
1	Correct Text Insertion - No use of getline() function, use of alphabets only and assuring that characters are shifted forwards, not overwritten . Text Insertion is allowed anywhere in each line - start, middle or end of each line and even between lines	/15
2	Correct Implementation of Enter key - Pressing enter should move entire text placed after cursor to next line. If no text follows the cursor, insert empty lines.	/10
3	Move the entire word to the next line if it doesn't fit within the required space, ensuring no trailing spaces and no word splitting. Note: word always will be smaller than line length	/5
4	Characters deleted one by one using backspace key	/15
5	Deletion implemented completely - start, middle, and end of each line, as well as deleting lines between lines.	/15
6	No trailing spaces at end of a line in the linked list- lines should end with an alphabet or '\n'	/5
7	Undo action functionality implemented using stack only	/20
8	Implementation for undo operation of 5 words (one word for each key press)	/10
9	Actions beyond 5 words aren't affected by undo operation	/5
10	Redo action functionality implemented using stack only	/20
11	Implementation for redo operation of 5 words (one word for each key press)	/10
12	Actions beyond 5 words aren't affected by redo operation	/5
13	A menu with options to create a new file, load an existing file, save the current file, or exit the program (with an option to save before quitting).	/5
14	Cursor moves freely but does not enter areas without text.	/10
15	Window size is fixed(not scrollable) and words do not overflow the defined area	/10
16	Cursor Movement implementation - should move up, right, down left without any issues	/20
17	File Handling - creating, loading and saving files	/20
